RESILIENCY = SURVIVAL

By Bea Morris

Resilient – Have you ever thought about what a wonderful attribute resiliency is? According to the dictionary, “resilient” means having the ability to recover from or adjust easily to change or misfortune; elastic, flexible, supple.

Life consists of change and misfortune, and in order to meet change and its challenges and to recover from misfortunes, we must cultivate and nurture our resiliency. The 2012 General Assembly session brought a number of changes to retirement and education that certainly were misfortunes.

However, teachers, especially retired teachers, are resilient. Over the years, we have experienced many changes and dealt with various misfortunes in both our personal and professional lives. And we did not succumb to them. We know how to regroup and work together to overcome and even to use change and misfortune to become stronger people and better professionals.

We are still salt and light, and we still bring hope, but now is the time to put anger, pessimism, and a defeatist attitude behind us and demonstrate resiliency. This is exactly what we intend to do at our Legislative Workshop on Monday, October 8, in Blackstone. Retirement and education suffered some blows last year, but in the 2013 General Assembly session, our resiliency will make clear to the legislators our knowledge, our professionalism, and our tenacity.

Join us for an explanation of revisions to our legislative priorities, information that will be useful in our lobbying activities this fall, and speakers who will inspire and support us. The VRS staff will again make a presentation to the entire assembly concerning VRS including its changes and its future.

Teachers are by nature patient, persistent, prepared, and persevering. We are not giving up! We are resilient!

Bea Morris, Legislative Chair, can be contacted by telephone at 540-867-5109 or by email at beam1340@verizon.net.

Fall Membership Drive

By Dennis Henry

Fall is the time of new retirees. This is the time the VRTA needs to focus on membership. No organization is vital without a membership that is increasing and well informed.

Membership can be summarized in three areas. This includes attracting new members, retaining current members, and activating members. To do this we need your local unit participation and input. Successful units have a member in charge of these statistics and communications. The membership chairperson works with keeping track of the newly retired, those retired during the past several years, and retention.

Many local unit members ask, “What does the VRTA do for me?” While we lobby in Richmond for our benefits with the VRS and also help provide insurance options for our members, the VRTA needs to do more. The VRTA needs to be there guiding local units and districts in fundraising, membership, and in ways to be a recognized part of the local units’ community.

The VRTA needs to have a goal that every local unit provide a scholarship of at least $500 and be an active part in helping to achieve that goal. Many units are now having one large fundraiser a year. This frees the membership to do other community projects. These projects lead to increased recognition in the community.

Our local units need positive public relations. Many units have invited the local newspaper editor to do a program. Use the media to make sure that your local unit’s community involvement is known. Make sure that your unit is listed at your Chamber of Commerce or Visitors’ Center on their list of local organizations. Also, make sure that your unit is known in your school division. Several units are donating gift certificates for teachers at the division back to school meetings. Units are also supporting the Teachers of Tomorrow. Local units need to have posters in every teacher lounge. The poster should include meeting information and your local community outreach. Remember, members become active when we achieve something.

Finally, there is the question of Blackstone. What is meaningful to you? Do we need two meetings a year? How can we encourage members to attend? Do we need seminars on fundraising and how to organize membership recruitment? Do we need a seminar on how to make the media work for you? What would you like to see at Blackstone? How can we make the Blackstone experience more efficient and meaningful?

We need you and your input. Contact me at dohenry@embarqmail.com, 540-635-4472, or Dennis Henry (V. P. of VRTA) at 223 West 8th St., Front Royal, Va. 22630. I look for to hearing from you.

Discretion is the Better Part of Valor

Bonnie Atwood, VRTA Lobbyist

We've all heard the expression, "shooting yourself in the foot." When you are communicating with people about issues that you feel passionate about, it is all too easy to do.

I've got the television on as I write this. The wonderful investigative news show, 20/20, is showing clips of people losing their temper—at work, in court, on airplanes, at their children's ballgames. I witnessed a particularly bad case of road rage just today. It's getting pretty bad out there. Losing your temper is probably the worst way that you can shoot yourself in the foot. But there are many other ways. Sometimes you can shoot yourself and not even know it.

Take the elevator situation. I've heard some pretty dicey things said on elevators. If the speaker does not recognize the others riding up with him, he sometimes makes the awful mistake of discounting them altogether. Apparently, he assumes nobody's listening. Big mistake. He might make an ill-advised criticism of a legislator, or reveal a private strategy, or spread gossip. You can spend days, weeks, months and years trying to build a positive image of yourself or your group, or trying to explain your viewpoint, and it can blow up in an instant—through elevator chat.

There were a lot of protests this past session at the Virginia Capitol. Many of those who came out were very effective. It is my observation, however, that some did serious harm to their group's message, and the media was right there to memorialize it for history.

Unfortunately, the list of ways you can shoot yourself—or your valued colleagues—in the foot is very long. I'm sure you can add to my list. And, believe me, I'm talking to myself, too, when I say: it doesn't hurt to review some things NOT to do:

Whine	Lie
Talk too long	Be loud
Show anger	Gloat
Forget that there are other points of view	Threaten
Mention making a campaign contribution
Say unkind things about a legislator (or anyone, for that matter)

In short—refrain from doing all those things that you told your students not to do.

VRTA Update From the Treasurer

By Weldon Martin, Treasurer

It is my honor to assume the position of treasurer of VRTA and I will attempt to follow in the tradition of our former treasurer, Betty Craft, who has handled this important position for many years in a professional and courteous manner. We all owe Betty a heartfelt thank you for the countless hours that she has put in as treasurer and for the wonderful job she has done of managing our finances and leaving us in a favorable financial position as she turns over her duties to others. I personally appreciate the help she has been providing me during the transition and I continue to depend upon her for advice and assistance.

I hope that you will all bear with me as I learn "the ropes". I will do my best to maintain the books and manage the membership records in a competent and professional manner. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have questions, need Dues Settlement Forms or Membership Enrollment Forms or need other assistance. My contact information is Weldon Martin, 1049 Martins Lane, Fincastle, VA 24090, phone (540) 473-2636, and email wlmartin@ntelos.net. I check email several times daily and that is a good way to communicate with me if you have questions.

Please continue to notify me of deceased members so that the membership rolls can be adjusted and kept current. I will work with our Vice-President, Dennis Henry, to continue the process of reviewing the membership rolls to identify names that should be removed. This is especially important to us as we try to cut costs for printing and mailing the spring and fall newsletters to members. We are receiving a tremendous number of returned newsletters, and we have to pay for the return postage as well.

If you are one of the districts and units that are approved as part of the VRTA Group Tax Exemption for IRS (Group Number 5658), it is important that documentation be kept on file with the treasurer and includes the following: IRS Policy Statement (if you have already submitted this you do not need to submit another one at this time) and Constitution/By Laws for your unit or district with the date approved (if you have submitted this to the treasurer already, you do not need to do so again, unless you have revised or amended your Constitution/By Laws). You must also submit a copy of your 2012-2013 budget to the treasurer to be included with the documentation. All of these documents must be signed and dated by at least two officers of your district or unit. Your cooperation in submitting the appropriate documents will be greatly appreciated since this information must be kept on file in order for your district or unit to continue to be a part of the Group Tax Exemption for VRTA. You may file your e-postcard on line with your EIN from July 1-November 15, 2012. If your district or unit is not currently included in the VRTA Group Tax Exemption Plan under section 501 © 4 of the Code, you may submit the necessary documentation to the VRTA treasurer prior to March 1, 2013, along with a check to VRTA for $18.00 to defray the cost associated with adding the district or unit to the group.

Bobbye Alexander introduced the Williamsburg-James City County District B Scholarship recipient, Abby Hunt, from Jamestown High School. The Hampton District B Scholarship recipient, Kathleen Hurlock, from Kecoughtan High School, was not able to attend the luncheon, but Evelyn Dawkins presented highlights from Miss Hurlock's application. Craig County's Spring Activities

The Craig County Retired Teachers were busy this past spring. In March the members enjoyed a pot luck lunch. Members were asked to relate teaching experiences and the reasons why they had entered the teaching profession. Some of the stories were quite humorous. During the June meeting, there was a discussion about geriatrics, specifically relating to the thyroid gland. Members enjoyed a luncheon meal, and membership dues were collected. The Craig County Retired Teachers look forward to a productive 2012-2013 year.

Bea Morris and Bonnie Atwood attended the VRTA Delegate Assembly last spring.

Franklin/Southampton

Miss Florence Grace Cummins was the recipient of the Franklin/Southampton Retired Teachers' Association annual scholarship in the amount of $600. President, Daphne M. Miller presents the certificate to Grace at their last meeting which was held at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center.

Roanoke City Has a Busy 2011-2012

What a productive 2011-12 year the Roanoke City Retired Educators' Association experienced! At our fall meeting on September 8, 2011, David Carson, Chairman of the Roanoke City School Board, spoke about what's good and new with Roanoke City Public Schools. Also, several contact agents from the VRTA shared information concerning Medicare Supplement Plan and other insurances.

At our December meeting held at The Holiday Inn, Valley View, the 3, 4, and 5 year old preschoolers from Greenvale Nursery School in Roanoke, performed a holiday special. Gwyn Ciemniecki, VRS Employer Representative, presented an overview of retirees' and members' benefits.

We were fortunate to have Scott Rumsburg, Marketing and Information Manager for Roanoke County Parks and Recreation, at our March meeting. He presented "Day Trips for Seniors in the Roanoke Valley" as well as Wellness and Fitness Programs and Lifestyle and Learning Opportunities.

Our final meeting for the year brought us Alison Shapiro, author, consultant, and illustrator who shared experiences of her life after suffering two strokes. She has written Healing Into Possibility-the transformational lessons of a stroke and is the illustrator of Just for Today. We were very pleased to award two scholarships to two very deserving "future teachers", Valerie Boone, a senior at Patrick Henry High School, and Derek Litvak, a senior at William Fleming High School.

Hampton RTA Spring Activities

The March luncheon meeting of the Hampton Retired Teachers Association was held at the Embassy Suites Ballroom in Hampton, VA. The entertaining and informative speaker was Corporal Herb Gallishaw of the Hampton Police Division, Community Relations. He gave numerous practical techniques to provide personal safety: do not hide a door key in the yard or near the door, carry only one credit card, in a public place do not put your pocketbook in the trunk of your car, and use banking direct deposit.

District P Concludes Another Successful Year with Spring Luncheon Meeting

Carlos Brazilian Restaurant, in Roanoke, was the setting for the spring luncheon meeting of District P, on May 22, 2012. Approximately 40 members of the district were in attendance and enjoyed a delightful lunch and interesting program.

One of the highlights of the business meeting was the unveiling of the new district banner, which depicts the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains and will be displayed at district and state meetings. (Thank you to Leigh McKay, Roanoke County, for heading up this project.) The district treasurer, Karen Brown (Alleghany Highlands) assisted the president, Weldon Martin (Botetourt) in presenting checks for $75 to each local unit in the district. These grants from District P will go towards each local units' scholarship fund. Harriet Snead (Alleghany-Highlands, Roanoke City, Roanoke County) led those present in a memorial service for those who have passed on during the past year, with each name being read by their local unit president.

Helen Tippie, retiring VRTA president, conducted the installation ceremony for the incoming officers for 2012-2014. They are Rose Ann Burgess (Roanoke City), President; Dana Hayes (Franklin County), Vice-President; Leigh McKay (Roanoke County), Secretary; and Karen Brown (Alleghany Highlands), Treasurer.

The keynote address was presented by Dr. Loraine Lange, Superintendent of Roanoke County Public Schools. After dinner, the group will be entertained by Madeline McNeil. Many of you may remember her wonderful dulcimer program from 2011. We are fortunate to have her return to be with us on Monday evening. After the program, members will have the opportunity to fellowship with each other. Bring some games to play that evening while enjoying refreshments, or just catch up with other retired teachers throughout the state. On Tuesday morning the keynote speaker will be Dara Dann who is the senior legislative representative for the NRTA.

Hope you will make plans to attend the fall conference in October.

Madeline MacNeil Returns

Madeline MacNeil will entertain members of VRTA attending the fall conference on Monday evening. For members who attended the Delegate Assembly in May of 2011, it will be a encore performance. She taught in Warren County for six years before beginning her career as a folk singer. She has performed at art centers and universities throughout the United States.

MacNeil has also performed in Ireland, Scotland, and England. For several years she was a touring artist under the sponsorship of the Virginia Commission for the Arts.

Celebrate VRTA History

It has been my pleasure for several years to collect state agendas, minutes, financial reports, directories, awards, and pictures for our six volume history. The VRTA history is on display at every state meeting.

There will be a session on our illustrious history on Monday afternoon at our annual fall meeting in October. It will include updated information you need to know about VRTA.

Discussing our history is as exhilarating as celebrating our anniversaries. We celebrated our 75th anniversary several years ago, and we will continue to commemorate these milestones.

Rosa Davis Overby
