From the VRTA President

My, how time flies! It seems that only yesterday I was installed as President of VRTA. The end of my term is drawing near. It has been an interesting journey, thanks to you wonderful people who have so willingly helped and encouraged me. I am forever grateful for this experience and for you, the people who make up VRTA.

Serving VRTA has taught me much, has offered me the opportunity to travel, to meet people and to make new friends who share the same joys and frustrations of our profession. In an article written by Becky Smith, President of Pittsylvania Retired Teachers Association, she commented, “I find immeasurable value in this organization and I will continue to meaningfully contribute to it.” I parrot those thoughts.

VRTA continues to touch the lives of our youth and people in our communities evident through the thousands of volunteer hours logged each year. Important to our organization is the lobbying force that we have to work toward the passage of legislation favorable to quality public education and to the interest of retired education personnel. VRS representatives keep us updated on changes and benefits in retirement. VRTA has an exclusive VRTA endorsed insurance benefits program. We offer pertinent workshops and sessions that are of interest to and have relevance to retirees. Last but not least, we provide awards to individuals and local units for their accomplishments, and we have fun and fellowship. Hopefully, in the next year, I can provide a book of teacher stories that you contribute.

I extend an invitation to you to attend the Spring Delegate Assembly April 25-26. I believe you will find it significant and enjoyable. Nina McClanahan will be installed as the new VRTA President. She will be an excellent leader. Please give her the same helping hand that you extended to me. Make VRTA the best ever. Abraham Lincoln once said, “And in the end it’s not the years in your life that count. It’s the life in your years.” Make the most of it.

Returned Newsletter-Fall 2015

Even though we have been working diligently to rectify the problem we have with returned newsletters, there is still work to be done. Progress is being made with each publication but we are still having way too many returns. In the fall of 2015 we were able to remove 113 more names from the mailing list. These members have had their newsletter returned 3 times. Another astonishing fact is that 101 more members had their newsletter returned for the first time. It appears that these members either have a new address or they have passed away.

I am asking each unit and district to keep their membership records accurate and notify Weldon Martin, VRTA Treasurer, of address changes and deceased members. He may be contacted at hooman4949@gmail.com.

Also, I am suggesting that we seriously consider delivering the newsletter electronically to all those who have computers and are willing. Several VRTA members are already receiving the newsletter electronically and are pleased with the fact the newsletter is in color. Those who receive the newsletter electronically receive an email as soon as it becomes available on the VRTA website, vrt.org. The voice of all our members is important and we want to hear from you.

Five Reasons You Should Run for Public Office

By Bonnie Atwood

Be honest. Do you ever watch the presidential candidates on TV and think, “I could do a better job than that guy!” Of course, you do. It was a silly question. And just maybe you can. I think you should consider running for public office.

You don’t have to throw your hat into the presidential ring right away. Why not announce you are running for your local school board? Or board of supervisors? You’ve had a teaching career. That counts for a lot. I ran for school board in my City of Richmond in the 1990s. I did not win, but I ran a good race, and I’m glad I did.

Here are some reasons why people like you and I should run for public office:

1. You get an opportunity to shape the dialog. When you’re on a panel, or on the stump, or writing your campaign literature, YOU bring up the issues that you think are most important. Your opponents may try to stay within their own agendas, but sooner or later, they can no longer ignore you. They HAVE to respond to the good questions you raise. Win or lose, you have brought public attention to the things that you want people to be talking about.

2. You learn about your locality, the issues, and the constituents. The campaign trail is a steep trek up the learning curve. Once you’ve declared you are a candidate, you spend every day—make that every minute—learning your territory: what people want, how much things cost, what the arguments are, etc. You learn fast and you learn well. You make yourself an expert.

3. You learn about politics. It’s not only the issues that you learn about; it’s also the system. You get an inside look at how people are selected, or become volunteers, to represent others. You learn about key supporters, fundraising, and, well, let’s face it: party drama. It will give you a new perspective on how things work.

4. You learn a lot about yourself. From the start, you set the tone of your campaign. Will it be positive? Will it be fierce? Will it be aggressive? It becomes your responsibility to communicate your style to everyone around you. That includes your volunteer team, the press, and the voters. You have to be strong about maintaining that tone, even if it means showing some of your supporters the proverbial door. To thine own self be true.

5. You become disciplined. If you’re outgoing, then running for office is fun. But it requires great discipline. You’ve got that. You were a teacher! You’ve got to get up early and stay up late. You’ve got to carry out every promise you make. You’ve got to read, read, read, and listen, listen, listen. You’ve got to be gracious, even when the people around you are not.

And here’s the icing on the cake: If you win, you get big say in what happens in your jurisdiction. Have I talked you into it yet? I’m beginning to think you can do this!

Charles Todd

On February 25, friends and family celebrated the life of Dr. Charles Todd (1929-2016). Charlie, as he was known by his many friends and colleagues, was a teacher in some capacity all his life – in his home, in the classroom, in various administrative positions, and in his tireless efforts as lobbyist for the VRTA. He will be remembered for his intellect, keen wit, and genuine love for people. He will be missed.

VRTA Newsletter is published twice annually, in the spring and fall. Submit articles to Editor Susan Martin at 1049 Martins Lane, Fincastle, VA 24090 or email at: hooman4949@gmail.com or smartin@bcps.k12.va.us
Deadline for the Fall 2016 newsletter is Wednesday, August 17, 2016.
From the Legislative Committee

As you anticipated retirement, what was it that you looked forward to most? Was it not having the responsibilities that you fulfilled for so many years, or was it new opportunities that awaited you? Or was it both?

Teachers by nature readily assume responsibilities of one kind or another. That’s just the way we are. It’s part of our DNA. Many of you stepped in to rescue family members in crisis before and after retirement. Some accepted leadership responsibilities in your church or in your community because you recognized the need and knew that you were prepared to do what needed to be done. Others did jobs that no one else would do, not because you had an abundance of self confidence but because you were willing to give it a try and take the heat if it didn’t turn out so well. At times you recognized the support that people needed who were struggling with one problem or another and continued to be the encourager you always were in your classroom, unafraid of getting too close and “involved.”

It’s strange how things work out. I’m willing to bet that each one of those responsibilities you took on also had an opportunity or a kind of gift that you never would have dreamed of. How many relationships were strengthened and how many people had a new and profound love for you as you went about picking up broken pieces of family problems or gently caring for those who were seriously ill? How many wonderful people have you met and new friendships have you made because you went to meetings when you would rather have stayed home to work in your garden or play bridge with friends?

Henry Adams said, “A teacher affects eternity. He can never tell where his influence stops.” What an awesome statement and what different forms that influence sometimes takes! Some of you have dared to use your skills and give of your time in the political arena where it seems no matter what you do you leave yourself open to criticism. Ask teachers who are now serving on school boards or city councils. Others spend time keeping up with bills in the state legislature that affect retirees and the education and the very lives of our young people. A Grisham novel is much more compelling than the emails I send out during the General Assembly session, but you use that information when you call and email your legislators. Just as in the classroom, you often are unaware of the impact you make, but, believe me, you are making a difference in lives now and in the future. It’s the trust in this that keeps us going.

Just as we took advantage of opportunities to refine our craft, socialize, and support each other as a faculty, we will come together at Blackstone on April 25-26 to learn how to enrich our personal lives and our organization, enjoy seeing old friends, and look forward to making new ones. After lunch, the VRS staff will bring us up to date on the retirement system. In the Legislative Workshop on Monday afternoon, Dr. Kitty Boitnott, Immediate Past President of VEA and now a VRTA member, will share with us some of her insights as a current member of the adjunct faculty at the University of Richmond teaching Education Ethics, Policy and Legal Issues and Education and Public Policy.

Please don’t miss these opportunities!

NRTA Advocacy Conference

NRTA Advocacy Conference was held in Arlington, Virginia, from September 28-October 1, 2015. Beatrice Morris and Nina McClanahan represented VRTA. Representatives from 47 states attended a marathon of workshops that were organized by NRTA (National Retired Teachers Association) staff members. These workshops gave an insight to the Legislative climate and outlook for all retirees, not just teachers. Participants in the conference had the opportunity to visit their state legislators on Capitol Hill in Washington D.C. Beatrice and Nina met with Caroline Robinson, a Legislative Correspondent in Senator Tim Kaine’s office, Lauren Marshall, a Legislative Correspondent in Senator Mark Warner’s office and Adam Harbison, the Legislative Director in Congressman Morgan Griffith’s office. At the end of the conference there was an opportunity to hear and share information about the Capitol Hill visits.

Charles City/New Kent Retired Teachers Report on Fall Activities

The Charles City/New Kent Retired Teachers Association has had a busy fall 2015 and we are looking forward to a 2016 New Year filled with lots of activities. Our September 2015 meeting was held on the 20th and we had many topics to bring before our group at that time.

Members of our organization were informed about some of the decisions that were made at the Spring and Fall VRTA meetings. Plans were also discussed about our Christmas activities. We planned our annual Christmas luncheon and decided that we would participate in the Annual Angel Tree Activity in Charles City County. The President, Hazel Charity, visited the BB&T Bank to select a family from the Angel Tree and the next week we were busy shopping for our Angel. The majority of our members participated in the project. We were happy that we could bring joy to a local family at Christmas.

Our annual Christmas luncheon was held at the Rose & Crown Restaurant in New Kent County, Virginia, on Thursday, December 10, 2015. Our guests and the members had an enjoyable afternoon. We were happy to see our newly elected school board member, Mr. Herbert Johnson, who is the husband of Mrs. Francine Johnson, a retired teacher in our group. Some of our other guests included: Mrs. Mary Collins, who retired from the Charles City County School System, but is a member of the Richmond Retired Teacher Organization. However, she often graces us with her presence at our Christmas activities. Mr. Eugene Williams and Mr. Lewis James were also guests at our luncheon. We were happy to celebrate the Christmas season with all of our members and guests. Many of us exchanged gifts and cards and enjoyed a delicious lunch.

The luncheon attendees also got to sign a petition that was sent to us from the Roanoke County Association. We signed the petition in support of some financial matters that need to be discussed in the General Assembly. By signing the petition, we are hoping for some positive results.

On Friday, December 11, 2015, we were asked to have all gifts for our Angel Tree Family delivered to the BB&T Bank located at 9200 Courthouse Road in Charles City, Virginia. A representative from our local newspaper (The Charles City/New Kent Chronicle) met our group at the bank to photograph us for the paper. The newspaper representative was Mr. Andre Jones, a graduate of Charles City High School. We were happy to see him and he informed us that since most of us taught him, he would make certain that our article got special attention from him. The new bank manager greeted us and we invited her to be photographed with our group.

This coming spring we will continue to work toward obtaining funds to give a scholarship to a worthy student from the senior class from New Kent High School. We rotate the giving of a $500.00 scholarship to a student at Charles City High or New Kent High School.

Portsmouth Retired Educators

The Portsmouth Retired Educators Association participated in two service projects in support of its adopted school, Park View Elementary. In September, members donated various school supplies to students in grades K through 6 to begin the year.

In November, members Iva Foust, Judith Morgan, Mozelle Parker, and Deloris Oliver launched a book drive “100 Books for 100 Children” to collect books to distribute to children of all ages. Members gathered new and gently used books. These were presented at the school’s November PTA meeting. Mrs. Foust, Mrs. Parker, and Mrs. Oliver spoke to the attendees about the importance of reading and the PREA’s commitment to assist whenever needed. After the meeting adjourned, books on four tables were displayed for children and parents to choose. Most were able to take two or more of the two hundred books collected. All were excited and left with smiles.

Richmond-Henrico Retired Teachers

Richmond-Henrico Retired Teachers Association members have committed to giving of their time and resources in support of “Youth In Our Community.”

In October, members donated money to the Feed More/Back Pack Program. This program fills the nutrition gaps for school-age children in need.

The December giving spirit was reflected in our annual school supply donations that were delivered to nine Elementary Schools in District Q.

We were happy to have our 2015 Scholarship recipients attend the December luncheon. Johonna Cruze is attending J. Sergent Reynolds Community College and Rakiyat Irbrahim is a student at Brigham Young University.

Scott County Retired Teachers Have a Busy Fall

Scott County Retired Teachers Association met on Wednesday, September 23, 2015, in the Cove Ridge Center classroom at beautiful Natural Tunnel State Park. Our morning program was presented by Joan Boyd Short and Grace Bradshaw, both members of the Daniel Boone Wilderness Trail Association. Joan Short, President of the Daniel Boone Wilderness Trail Association, presented a fascinating history of the Wilderness Trail Blockhouse and of those pioneering individuals who came to the area prior to Daniel Boone. Although many of our members are quite knowledgeable of the history of our region, most were surprised to learn something new from the presentation. Grace Bradshaw, from the Appalachian Writing Project, then led us in a writing workshop. She read several intriguing poems to us and then gave us a prompt entitled “Where I'm From.” We were then asked to recall meaningful and poignant memories from personal experiences and record them in a poem. Some members then volunteered to read their creation to the group. After lunch, the entire group toured the historic Wilderness Trail Blockhouse located high atop a ridge on the Natural Tunnel State Park grounds and overlooking the Rye Cove community. Everyone had a wonderful day learning and enjoying the company of old friends. Later, on December 9, 2015, our group enjoyed a festive Christmas luncheon at Olive Garden, bringing our year to a close.

Shenandoah County Retired Teachers Association

The Shenandoah County Retired Teachers Association held its annual Back to School Breakfast on the first day of school, September 8, 2015. Food was collected for Luke’s Backpack, a local ministry that supplied 48,198 weekend meals in backpacks, to hungry students last year. The retirees brought 280 food items and $230.00 cash to help fill a hay wagon during the Shenandoah Valley Lutheran Ministries, Inc. Back to School food drive. The group also heard from Teresa Funkhouser, Senior Services Program Coordinator for the Shenandoah County Department of Parks and Recreation, who talked about opportunities for seniors through Parks and Rec - teaching classes, taking classes, taking trips, volunteering. In December, the unit will collect food for a local food pantry.

The Hampton Retired Teachers Association held its fall luncheon meeting on September 9, 2015, at the Embassy Suites in Hampton, Virginia.

The members were honored that the new Superintendent, Dr. Jeffery Smith, took time during the first week of school to attend the meeting. He gave an interesting presentation which introduced us to his background and his expectations for the school system and after his presentation, he posed for a picture with HRTA President Jacqueline Smith-Watson.

Additionally, at this meeting the members participated in two programs which will benefit Hampton elementary school students. Karla Young, Principal of Aberdeen Elementary School, attended the meeting and accepted a donation of $575 for her school’s uniform fund. Kraft Elementary School’s Assistant Principal, Sean Holleran, also attended the meeting and accepted backpacks and school supplies for his school.

With over 100 attendees at the meeting, the unit continues to thrive.

Brunswick Retired Teachers Association Host Fall Membership Luncheon

The BRTA began its fall activities with a membership luncheon held at Nottoway Restaurant, Warfield, Virginia. Guests included recently retired educational personnel who expressed an interest in joining the association.

President Louise Mont-Tucker warmly greeted the guests and highlighted the purpose of the association. Of special focus was emphasis on the association’s continued service to educational programs and support for programs that benefit retired personnel.

Most entertaining and inspiring were the stories shared by the guests as they talked about their many years of service in education.

Dinwiddie County Has a Fulfilling 2015

At the March 2015 meeting our guest speaker Mrs. Lori Stevenson, Commissioner of Revenue for Dinwiddie County, spoke briefly to our members about how her office serves the citizens of Dinwiddie County and surrounding areas.

During the June meeting at the Nottoway Restaurant in McKenney, Virginia, we honored Haley Hornsby with a scholarship to VSU. She will pursue a career in teacher education.

On Monday, December 14, 2015, members of the Dinwiddie County Retired Teachers’ Association hosted the District D meeting with a catered luncheon at the historic Southside High School Education Center, Dinwiddie, Virginia. Mrs. J. Goodwyn, President of DCRTA, presided. Our guest speaker for the occasion was Reverend Louis Collins of the Garden of Gethsemane Ministries of Richmond, Virginia. His message to retired teachers was to rethink retirement and dedicate a small percentage of their time to go back into schools and assist educators and students in a meaningful way. Then Ms. Patricia Holland, District D president, conducted the business session of the meeting. Units in attendance were Amelia, Brunswick, Chesterfield, Franklin-Southampton, Greensville, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nottoway, Petersburg-Prince George, Sussex, and the host unit, Dinwiddie.

King and Queen/King William/West Point Retired Teachers Association

"Be Aware of the Many Scams" was the topic presented at a recent local meeting of the King and Queen/King William/West Point Retired Teachers Association. Sergeant Ron Hirtz of the King and Queen County Sheriff’s Department spoke to the membership about the many scams in the public arena directed towards the elderly population. Sergeant Hirtz made the membership aware of the many devious manners in which others will pose as someone they are not, in order to gain access to the financial resources of the elderly population. Sergeant Hirtz described how we can lose "our shirts" in a few minutes. There are many phone scams. One scam which seems most prolific is that of declaring that the elderly person who answers the phone owes money to the Internal Revenue Service. All must remember that the IRS will never notify anyone of incorrect tax monies paid via phone. After that meeting, one member received three such phone calls the next day! The caller always states that you need to call the number given right away, it is urgent that you do so. To prove how urgent it is they will make repeatable calls. The thieves will also state that you owe money to various companies, that a family member has been arrested and needs bail money right away or was traveling and had their money stolen so you need to send them money as soon as possible. Another scam is that you need to purchase some products from traveling steak salesmen, as they are at the end of their day and the home office has authorized the driver to sell them at a discounted price. He also mentioned people coming to your home to sell you books, pavement left over from highway paving jobs, house painting jobs, tree cutting, etc. Many times you are told of money you have won, cars, etc., but you just need to pay this surcharge amount which, again, is false information. He stated, "Scams are at every turn and increasing daily. You should not be surprised by any scam stories they present."

Sergeant Hirtz further stated, "If it sounds too good to be true, it is probably really is too good to be true. People don't give away things at no cost." Sergeant Hirtz provided these guidelines to live by: (1) Don't say "yes" to anything over the phone. (2) Don't give out any personal information over the phone. (3) Call the police or sheriff department if you think any kind of scam or personal information seeking occurs over the phone. This was a very interesting and timely program for our membership.

Superintendent Supports Retirees Service

In her address to Petersburg/Prince George Retired Teachers Association, Superintendent Dr. Linda Shifflette encouraged retired teachers to join her in supporting Petersburg City Public Schools’ challenge in any way they can: mentoring, tutoring, chaperoning, contributing school supplies, reading to classes (especially during Read Across America Day), and buddying for lunch.

The most significant committee report was the legislative by Annie Mickens which updated members on all the bills concerning retired educators before the General Assembly. Following the business session, a reminder of our upcoming December District D meeting was given and then door prizes were distributed before adjournment.

Hampton Retired Educators’ December Activities

At the December 9th luncheon meeting, at the Embassy Suites in Hampton, Virginia, the members wore holiday attire and were entertained by over 50 members of the Sprately Gifted Center Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Pamela Young and accompaniment of Priscilla Lockett. The chorus' melodic sounds, happy faces and varied musical selections (including "I'm sick of all the fa, la, la") put everyone in the mood for the holidays. After the usual reports and business, we participated in the 2nd Annual "Twelve Days of Christmas" Competition. Despite the best efforts of the other eleven tables, the 7 Swans A Swimming table - with arms flailing in some kind of swim stroke - won. There was considerable unrest (and verbal dissent) when the judges, some members of the hotel wait staff, ruled that the Two Turtle Doves table had beaten the Three French Hens for 2nd place. We all departed having enjoyed this afternoon activity.

On December 18th, President Jacqueline Smith-Watson hosted a holiday party for the HRTA Executive Board. In addition to enjoying the wonderful Christmas decorations and delicious food, we had a lively competition for the exchange of Dollar Tree gifts. One would have thought the gifts were from Neiman Marcus!
Again, I invite you to come to the VRTA Spring Delegate Assembly April 25-26. The sessions planned for Monday afternoon will be informative, educational, and entertaining. WHEN I WENT TO SCHOOL IN THE 1870’S

I went to school in an old log house
Where we only had one room.
Had a big broad shelf for a writing desk,
And swept with broom as-broom.
We took our dinners to the schoolhouse,
And hung our pails on the hook.
We all drank water from the guard at the spring
And washed our faces in the brook.
The old house had a roof of boards,
The wind whistled through the cracks.
Had a big log fire in the fireplace,
And sat with seats without backs.
At 12 o’clock we had an hour
To play upon the lawns.
We washed our faces and combed our hair
’Til the teacher blew his horn.
We stayed at the school 'till 4 o’clock,
We were due to arrive at 8.
Had no excuse when we stayed away
And were never kept in for being late.
We had no bus to ride in those days
Tho’ we had 3 and ½ miles to go.
But oh’ what a jolly time we had
As we trudged thru the mud and the snow.

From the VRTA Treasurer

I want to remind everyone that state dues have been increased for the first time in many years, beginning with the upcoming membership year and are now $20. This is effective for the 2016-2017 membership year. Don’t forget to include this increase in your new budgets and to begin collecting this amount this spring as you are collecting dues for next year.

Our local unit treasurers have a hard job and much of their work is done behind the scenes. I appreciate their commitment and I hope that our members remember to thank your local treasurer once in a while for all that he or she does.

Here are a few additional reminders for treasurers:

- It is now time to start collecting dues for 2016-2017 at $20 per member.
- Membership forms, Dues Settlement Statement Forms and the Handbook for Local Unit Treasurers will be available at the Spring Delegate Assembly. These items can be mailed to you by request if you are unable to attend the delegate assembly.
- Don’t forget to send a copy of your 2016-2017 budget, signed and dated by two officers to the state treasurer no later than December 31, 2016.
